WE NOMINATE

Courtland Davis Perkins, who over the course of the next few months will be wrestling with all of the facts and interpretations General Nathan F. Twining, Chief of Staff of the U.S. Air Force, and his high-ranking associates place before President Eisenhower in reporting on their just-completed "inspection tour" of the Soviet Union. At a time when the Nation's press is jammed with speculations about Russian turbo-prop long-range bombers and experts' views on the contrasts and contradictions presented by the Soviet Air Force, this 43-year old Princetonian—on leave in 1956-57 from the Princeton University Faculty—is preparing to assume on August 1st his new duties as Chief Scientist of the United States Air Forces.

In succeeding H. Guyford Stever, Associate Dean of Engineering at M.I.T. and the Air Force's Chief Scientist for the past 18 months, Perkins will be taking over one of the country's most responsible scientific assignments, a post in which he will be intimately concerned with the Air Force's every effort to offset and exceed spectacular Soviet advances in the field of aviation. The appointment will mark the second time since Perkins turned from industrial production to basic research in 1939 that he has devoted full time to the military aspects of the aeronautical sciences, for in World War II he organized and directed a key research section in the hush-hush Aircraft Laboratory at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio.

The Philadelphia-born Perkins, an honors graduate of Swarthmore College, was called to Princeton in 1945 and six years later, with the establishment of the James Forrestal Research Center, was named chairman of the Department of Aeronautical Engineering. As the Forrestal Center has expanded its activities, Perkins has been instrumental in the development of instructional and research programs that enable his department, the youngest in the School of Engineering, to sustain one of the University's largest programs of graduate study. For the past decade Perkins, the husband of a member of the Borough Board of Education and the brother of a Township Board of Education member, has been combining teaching with research in the area of airplane stability and control at extremely high speeds.

A consultant to the Weapons System Evaluation Group under the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Perkins in recent years has been editing for the NATO-sponsored Advisory Group for Aeronautical Research and Development a series of research publications that are distributed to other universities and research centers in the 15 NATO nations. In meeting the demands of a hectic daily schedule, that often includes sub-committee sessions of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics and consultations with industrial boards of advisors, Perkins makes good use of his pilot's license and thinks little of hopping from the Forrestal air-strip to Washington for a noon gathering and then back to Princeton for a late-afternoon departmental conference.

For undertaking a vital mission for which he is eminently well equipped by his training and day-to-day experience; for bringing one segment of this community's research corps into even closer contact with the country's needs; for giving added emphasis in the Wilson Centennial Year to the Wilsonian concept of "Princeton in the Nation's Service;" he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

TOWNSHIP TEAPOT

And Then There Were None. Princeton Township's already somewhat confused political picture muddled appreciably this week—and there was apparently no end in sight. Voters were beginning to think they'd best wait until November 6 to make sure who's running for available positions on the five-man Township Committee.

Things took a surprise turn Monday, when Mayor John H. Wallace Jr. tendered his official resignation, effective not later than September 15. Everyone knew the Mayor planned to make his move sooner or later, but no one—not even his closest Republican colleagues—expected him to make it this soon, right in the middle of a major political year. (For details, see story, page 3).

Mayor Wallace's sudden bow-out, just six months following the start of his third three-year term, left the entire campaign open for considerable conjecture. For near-certainty, however, it appeared probable that the heavily pro-Republican Township Committee will appoint a GOP replacement to finish Mr. Wallace's current year in office and that the same person will be the GOP candidate to complete his term, which runs until December 31, 1958. Election of a new mayor will be made from among the present members by the governing body itself.

To add spice to the red-hot pot-pourri, as if it were needed, Town Topics learned Tuesday night that still another Township Committeeman probably will resign this month to accept an out-of-Princeton job. If so, his party will require a new nominee to seek his post, thus adding to the mix-up caused by the Wallace resignation, which itself calls for a new candidate from each party.

—The Township confusion was away to a good start this spring, when Republican Hugh D. Wise Jr. quit his Township Committee berth (also to move into the Borough) and James G. Campbell Jr., GOP tax collector but a virtual political novice, was appointed in his place. Now, with one more resignation recorded and a third imminent, there will likely be five political unknowns in the election picture with Mr. Campbell. In fact, he might be considered the political veteran of the lot.

The culmination of the triple resignations will establish some sort of Princeton political precedent. Three years ago, there were only that many positions on the Township Committee.

AROUND TOWN

Urges "Horse Sense." Mrs. Anita M. Hazek, long-time owner of the Princeton Riding Club, conceded this week that fences separating the club's long-used bridle path from new homes in the area will go up this week end, as stipulated by a recent court order. But she added that she hoped the judge would use a little "horse sense" before handing down his final judgment in October — a ruling which will either ban or permit future operation of the path by the club's members.

Admitting that there is a certain amount of danger involved in the matter of romping steeds vs. romping youngsters, the club owner argued that homeowners were not properly advised of the situation when the houses were sold to them. Moreover, she contended, there are 200 children in the Princeton Riding Club who will face the "great danger" of cars and dogs scaring their horses if they are forced to use Mountain Avenue as an access to the countryside instead of the old bridle path.

Mrs. Hazek summed up her position by charging the club's new neighbors with "stepping on more toes" than her horses are. The club cannot exist on its four acres alone, she observed, and—in conclusion — she cannot hope to sell the club, as she has hoped for quite a spell, unless the once-wide open spaces remain reasonably wide open.

Two Strikes But Not Yet Out. Truckloader Merzie Lee and his family of five, who faced eviction from their home at 74 Clay Street last week, received an indefinite stay of execution from the Borough Housing Authority at the eleventh hour. Realizing the Lees' efforts to find a different house, out of the Hageman Homes project, and their difficulties in finding a suitable dwelling, the BHA decided to relax its eviction regulations and give the family added time to house-hunt.

"Everybody's happy now," was Mr. Lee's comment after a meeting with BHA commissioners. He admitted that his rent for the low-income accomodations will be raised immediately to $103.50 per month, a $4 increase to account for his family's increased aggregate earnings since the last hike in March, but he said it was worth the jump to remain in the home he and his family have enjoyed for the past three years.

FACTS 'N FIGURES

Highway Situation Better. Blessed with a 10-day period that produced no highway deaths or serious traffic injuries in the Princeton area, Borough and Township police this week went about the task of cleaning up old cases involving fatal and near-fatal accidents.

Township officers who investigated the June 21 collision on Princeton Pike that resulted in the death of Kurt Eickler, a visitor from Flushing, N. Y., reported that a careless driving complaint against his son, Frank, probably will not be heard here next Tuesday night, as scheduled, but at a later date. They pointed out that the Mercer County Grand Jury will get a chance to review the facts of the case before any local charges are considered, and the Grand Jury probably will not meet again before the next Township Court session.

Correction. In last week's Town Topics, an erroneous impression was given to the effect that A. Cyrus Warner, 98 Olden Lane, driver of the second car in the Eickler death accident, will be the sole participant under scrutiny by the Grand Jury. Actually, according to investigating officers, review of Mr. Warner's participation will be only a formality, as he is not charged hy the Township police, while young Eickler — charged with careless driving and under $100 bond—will be obliged to bear the brunt of the investigation.

Borough police, meanwhile, were informed by Magistrate Paul R. Chesebro that a careless driving charge against Columbus Webb of Trenton will not be heard in Municipal Court until Mrs. Marshal Dana, Raymond Road, is physically able to appear as a witness. Mrs. Dana was hurt severely while crossing Stockton Street on foot June 1 when Mr. Webb's auto struck her down. She is not expected to be well enough for a court appearance for at least several weeks.

Oldest Alumnus Named. The 600 Princeton alumni who make this community their home (and the University's other 28,000 sons) learned this week who succeeds the late Paul Martin in the honorary role of "oldest alumnus." In sharp contrast to other years, when the "elder statesman" holding the coveted title lived near enough to Old Nassau to return fairly regularly to reunions, the new incumbent is half a world away.

He is the Rev. Henry Goloknath '82 of India, a classmate of the Rev. Mr. Martin, and now the sole surviving member of the group graduating 74 years ago. In common with Mr. Martin, he also graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary, and in 1886 was ordained as a minister in the Presbytery of New Brunswick. University records do not reveal that he has attended a reunion since taking up residence in India toward the latter part of the last century.

PERSONALITIES

Joseph R. Nini, 90 Clearview Avenue, Clerk of Princeton Township, who served as Township Prosecutor for the first time in his career—abiding by regulations which permit him to assume such duties under certain conditions only—and won a pair of $5 cases against unwary masters of unlicensed cannies.

Johnny Brown, first-year assistant pro at Springdale Golf Course, who recently made a hole-in-one on the 127-yard 15th while playing with member William Wilson. It was the second ace of the golfer's links life and his first since the Miami Open of 1931.

Henry L. Savage, 210 Prospect Avenue, Princeton University professor who is handling the general editorship of an elaborate volume for Nassau Hall's 200th birthday that will include an account of the American attack on the structure during the Battle of Princeton, a description of famous events in the hall, local color concerning life in the building when undergraduates lived there and various pictures of the edifice during its earliest days.

Topics of the Town

Mayor Wallace to Resign. Princeton Township will have a new mayor before summer ends. John H. Wallace, Jr., head of the governing body for the past two years and a committee member for nearly seven, will submit his resignation at Monday's meeting in Township Hall.

The reason (first forecast in Town Topics last September) is the plan that he and Mrs. Wallace have now completed to become residents of the borough. They have purchased a home on Library Place and have sold their home on The North Road.

Mr. Wallace announced this week that he will make his decision known in formal fashion at Monday night's meeting. It will be effective at the committee's discretion, "but not later than September 15." While the Library Place property was purchased in 1955 with the intention of moving some years later, Mr. Wallace said, "for numerous reasons, we have decided to make the move this September."

His statement continues:

"While the voters of Princeton Township may view my resignation with mixed feelings, the decision is accompanied by some very real personal regrets. I have enjoyed my six and one half years of association with the members of the Township Committee and the opportunity it has given me to serve the residents of the Township. I have appreciated being twice honored by my colleagues with the Office of Mayor.

"My feeling of regret, however, is tempered by the fact that my withdrawal will in no way affect the sound government of the Township. The members of the Committee are able and devoted, and the administrative staff and other employees are efficient and responsible. I shall miss working with them."

Mayor Wallace's impending resignation increases to three the number of actual and pending actions of this nature by members of the Township Committee. For a full report along these lines, see "This Is Princeton," page 1.

Stimulus for Suburbia. Practically deluged by requests for approval of new Princeton subdivisions, the Township Planning Board this week okayed the first phase of one large-scale development and temporarily denied the opening bids of three other projects. Board members made it clear, however, that the latter probably will receive the "green light" as soon as certain planning oversights have been corrected.

Approved by the Township group were the first 16 plots of a 36-plot development — Autumn Hill subdivision—which will be built off Herrontown Road by Seaman Construction Company, now of Princeton. Homes for the project, designed by Architect its search for a new location. . . The school's trustees are investigating the possibility of finding existing buildings, with the thought of remodelling same, and also are hunting for feasible undeveloped sites.

No word this week from the State Bureau of Inspections, investigating the tragic Tenacre Foundation fire, though a report is anticipated soon (for an interesting letter on the subject, see Mailbox, page 18) . . . The Mayor and Westminster Choir College officials conferred Tuesday regarding the sum the college will contribute for "municipal services" and reached a quick agreement, thus permitting work on the school's new dormitory to proceed without a hitch . . . Similar discussions with the University and Seminary, aimed at compensating in part for their non-taxable positions, are on the Mayor's near-future agenda.

When the federal government announced last week that New Jersey will get $1½ billion from Uncle Sam to underwrite its roads' program for the next 10 to 13 years, Princetonians immediately asked how many of these many dollars will be earmarked for a Princeton by-pass . . . They learned, much to their dismay, that the by-pass lies way, way down on the state's priority list . . . Yet, in the last 25 years, very little state highway money has been spent in this area . . . Concerned citizens will take the matter straight to the state house—in a hurry!

Don Scholz of Toledo, will range from $30,000 to $60,000 (some with swimming pools) on two to three acres each.

Denied by the Township Planning Board were preliminary plans for Princeton University Estates, a nine-lot proposal on Province Line Road; Princeton Estates, a 35-lot project off Route 206 along Arron Road; and the Albert Salzman subdivision, a 19-lot development east of Cherry Hill Road directly south of Princeton Estates.

Regarding the Princeton University project, which intends to offer its homes on the open market and not restrict them to the college faculty, the board returned plans to Edward B. Van-Note, civil engineer, for revision and re-study. Regarding the Arreton Road development, it requested more information from the Berston Corporation, planning construction of the development, and also notified Berston that approval must be received from the State Health Department for use of water in the area. As for the Salzmen tract, it ordered the same permission receipt for water privileges from the State Health Department.

In its only other action Monday evening, the board considered the Princeton Shopping Center's request for additional directional signs in the Township—a matter of interest to expanding suburbia if not a strong contributing factor. The board endorsed the Center's type and size for its signs, but limited the location and number of signs to half of the desired 20.

Model Home Open Sunday. Latest in the march of new homes is the opening of Nu-Level Homes, an eventual development of 33 units located on both sides of the Borough - Township line. An "open-house" is scheduled for this Sunday at the model home on North Harrison Street within sight of the Shopping Center.

Nu-Level Homes Inv. posted its developer's bond in the Borough this week and will proceed with construction of its seven-room plus split-level homes, a number of which have been sold in advance of the opening. For further details, see advertisement, page 24.

Mr. Baker was the son of Mrs. Arthur W. Jarvis of Princeton and the late A. Thornton Baker. Three brothers and a sister, all former residents of Princeton, also survive.

The funeral will be held Friday at 10 a.m. at Trinity Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Princeton Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, it is requested that contributions to the Mentally-Retarded Children's Fund of New Jersey be sent in care of Lewis B. Cuyler, 32 Edgehill Street.

O'Neil Will Upheld. The will of Mrs. Catherine O'Neil, who lived on Lake Road in Kingston has been upheld in Middlesex County Court with a ruling that Mrs. O'Neil was mentally capable of drawing up her testament.

The will leaves bequests to Princeton Hospital, St. Joseph's College here and the Evergreen Home for the Aged in Morristown and the remainder to Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Carroll of New Brunswick and Dr. and Mrs. J. Thomas James of 45 Vandeventer Avenue. The document was contested by several first cousins, but will now be submitted to probate.

Mrs. O'Neil was the widow of Harry F. O'Neil, who died here in 1952. He was a retired lawyer. The bulk of the estate is in Pittsburgh real estate.

Heavy Fine for Heavy Load. Trenton truck driver John J. Cilio was fined $661.40 by Magistrate Louis R. Gerber this week. Mr. Cilio pleaded guilty to a charge of driving an overweight truck.

He was detected on Route 206 by a state trooper and subsequent investigation showed that he was carrying 21,380 pounds over the legal limit. The fine is mandatory, based on two cents per pound below 10,000 pounds and three cents per pound for everything over that.

With Township Clerk Joseph Nini acting as a prosecutor, W. S. Moffo, 321 Ewing Street, and W. N. Smith, 209 Moore Street, were fined $5 apiece for failure to have their dogs licensed.

Borough Court Action. Brought into Municipal Court on a warrant, after failing to appear for several weeks, Mrs. Ruth M. Gates, Old Rocky Hill Road, was fined $40 for speeding at 50 miles an hour. Magistrate Paul R. Chesebro pointed out that Mrs. Gates' normal penalty would have been $25, but he charged her extra because she disregarded earlier summonses.

In a similar matter, the $25 bond of Mrs. Catherine Cunningham, 149 Terhune Road, was forfeited when she failed to appear in court Tuesday afternoon. The magistrate noted that the speeding complaint against the defendant normally would have cost her $15.

Two Princeton motorists paid fines out of court this week: Hans P. Struksnaes, 104 Graduate College, $12 for "stop" sign violation, and J. C. Daniels, 41 Witherspoon Street, $10 for failure to have auto inspected on schedule.

Wheels Turn for Ike. Two Princeton boys are taking part in a campaign to encourage President Eisenhower to run for a second term. Chris Wright, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wright of Battle Road, and "Biffy" Lea, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lea of Princeton Pike, will be riding the Trenton-to-Wilmington leg of a bicycle marathon from Maine to Florida. UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

Fun. The old but rather ageless farce "Charlie's Aunt" holds the stage this week at Murray Theatre, except that Charles Schultz just about breaks up the stage in an incredible romp. The 1892 comedy should be seen nightly through Saturday at the Murray. Reservations at 1-3539.

The role of the English Lord and Oxford student who impersonates said aunt from Brazil, where the nuts come from, is a miracle of opportunity for slapstick comedy, and anybody who knows Mr. Schultz's many previous appearances on Princeton stages knows what to expect.

For those who don't, let it be said that thousands of staggeringly funny tricks come out of the bag in the course of the play. Chiz Schultz's "takes" are old, new, borrowed, created and rolled into a spectacular performance.

Anna Russell at Bucks

Anna Russell, the international concert comedienne, will make a special matinee appearance at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope on Thursday, July 26.

The special attraction will bring the British star of stage, radio, TV, opera, films, recordings and night clubs to the barn theatre for a performance of her famed lampoons of the concert world, plus assorted additional humor.

You go from a roll of the eyes, to a gesture, a pratfall, the epic tea pouring "bit," chase after chase, and so on through a delightful evening with Mr. Schultz. He's wonderful.

If the star towers over a delightful evening, it isn't because everyone else in the cast doesn't pitch in with a spirited performance. The reasons are the role, the actor, and his ability to cover over any weak spots (including his own) with a torrent of laughter in a matter of seconds.

Joe Bird and Ralph Williams team up with Charlie's Aunt in a wonderful trio of Oxonians, with lots of fine interplay. Their contributions should not be minimized, even under the circumstances.

Mario Siletti, Munroe Wade and Max Brandt provided three rather separate sources of laughter, yet each wound up a success over the course of the play.

The ladies, in a series of impossible roles, did very well, headed by Lelia Barry and Betty Frohling as the two principal amours. Mary Gonzales as the real aunt started a bit slowly, but achieved her customary control of the scene by the third act. Kathy Kelly deserves a special mention as the love of the impersonating Mr. Schultz, this being only the second stage role for the 14-year-old young lady.

The traditional University Players' whole-hearted approach to farce was very much present in "Charlie's Aunt." When they take this kind of a comedy, they make it fun for everyone. Under director Mike Kesdekian's hand, they fashioned a fine piece of entertainment.

"Charlie's Aunt" is such that liveliness of production makes you ignore immediately the fact that the comedy is a real nothing. But the Players attacked the impossible "asides" with absolutely no self-consciousness and made them work. Aged British slapstick becomes a grace in these circumstances.

A rare fowl is "Charlie's Aunt," but you'll love it. Just watch the uproarious Mr. Schultz and his cohorts.

"Blood Wedding" Next. The Spanish masterpiece "Blood Wedding" by Frederico Garcia Lorca is next on the University Players' schedule, opening Tuesday, July 10, and running through Saturday, July 14. Reservations may be made now by calling the box office, 1-3539.

The Lorca play is an unusual choice for summer stock performance, and thereby more valuable. The play is rarely seen, is the case with most of the great plays by the major playwright's of Spain, of whom Lorca is widely regarded as the finest.

"Blood Wedding" is charged with a virility and vigor caught from the emotions and associations of the Spanish peasantry. Lorca's plays, both tragedies and romances, have won their place as expressions of the way of life of these powerful, yet unrefined people.

The tragedy brings something new and spirited to the playgoer, combining elements of savagery, passion and sex in a superbly written drama. Altogether, "Blood Wedding" is a long way from customary summer fare, but right in keeping with the high standards of the University Players.

Final casting had not been completed by press time, but Selly Weber Jenny has been named for the role of the Bride. Her most recent appearance here was an outstanding portrayal of the Sphinx in "The Infernal Machine" for the 1953 University Players.

Ann Mayo will do the costumes, basing her designs on ideas gained from extensive travel in Spain. Original music has been composed for the production by Frank Lewin of Hopewell and Jerry Raibourn is designing special sets and lighting.

BUCKS COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

"Tea and Sympathy" by Robert Anderson continues its run at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope and will be held over for a second week (ending Saturday, July 14). There are Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Mary Sinclair is starred in the role of Laura Reynolds, first created on the Broadway stage by Deborah Kerr. She is the wife of the housemaster at a boys' preparatory school who persecutes a student because of his non-conforming way and a fear of a drive within himself.

John Lehne, who acted last summer at the Playhouse and was in the Linda Darnell road company of the play, is playing the young man who doubts himself under the pressure. Howard Da Silva appears as Reynolds and Jerome Cowan as the boy's non-understanding father.

"Tea and Sympathy" played for 709 performances on Broadway and is making its first area appearance in stock at the Bucks Playhouse.

MUSIC CIRCUS

"Plain and Fancy," the imaginative musical about the Amish people of Lancaster County, Pa., which earned a special place for itself in the Broadway heart, has opened at the Music Circus in Lambertville for a run totalling three weeks.

The Princeton Kiwanis Club has taken over the performance of Sunday, July 15, (8:00 p.m.) for a benefit. Tickets may be purchased from any Kiwanis member or by calling David Penrose (Twin Oaks 6-0242.)

"Plain and Fancy" with its rustic songs and plot about two New Yorkers who help solve a romantic problem among the Amish as well as their own is under the direction of Bert Yarborough.

The visiting couple are played by Joyce Randolph, best known for her TV role of Trixie Norton in Jackie Gleason's "The Honeymooners," and Richard Allen. The romantic pair is portrayed by Greta Gray and Stanley Grover, with Ben Parrish as Papa Yoder.

THE PLAYHOUSE

(The Garden is closed for the summer. Reopens Labor Day.)

Trapeze (July 4-10) is a typical Hollywood mingling of sex and sawdust, with Gina Lollobrigida providing the former and a small Paris circus the latter. The plot revolves around a "triple," a complicated aerial performance which the old "pro" of trapeze artistry, Burt Lancaster, is teaching to the young tyro, Tony Curtis, and the triangle which they form around the shapely Italian star. At the finale, one gets the girl while the other gets a better job, so presumably the movie muse is satisfied.

That Certain Feeling (July 11-17) is good summer entertainment with plenty of laughs. Bob Hope, Eva Marie Saint, George Sanders and notably Pearl Bailey are fine in a lively addition of the play "King of Hearts". A good show, in Vista Vision and Technicolor.

It's New to Us

Between Seasons. The summer solstice is only two weeks old and vacation time still lies ahead for many of us. Yet in that limbo where the fashion world lives, summer is long since past and only the fall and winter really matter. Want a little cotton? They are all on sale. Shorts? Well, sometimes, it's hard to re-order . . .

If you want a good summer sheer, or a dark dress to wear into town, you can find them at Mayme Mead, where summer still lingers. In the shop at 188 Nassau there are half a dozen neat dark cottons, most of them sleeveless or narrowly strapped with brief jackets.

A princess silhouette has been used for one. Its Empire top is white pique, contrasting with the microscopic grey and white check of the dress. Skirt flares gently to the slightest breeze. Jacket is very snug and brief with elbow-length sleeves.

Black linen in the Empire style has a jacket of charcoal and white cotton cord with short sleeves. Another black linen is cut like a sheath, but belted. At the edge of its collarless neck-line is a three-inch yoke of fine black net. Sleeves are short.

Here's a two-piece dress in grey with narrow skirt and an overblouse with short sleeves and a wide white organdy bow at the base of the collared V-neck. No sleeves at all on a brown dress with a dollar-size buttons down the front to the hem. A white and yellow striped bow marks the neckline.

Here's a variation on the jacket theme. It's a princess dress with a jacket that's cut to look like a short cape. The fabric is a black and white plaid—very small—trimmed with white pique and a stiff soutache braiding around the "cape" edge.

In cool summer sheers, Mayme Mead has a batiste, blue as delphinium, with no sleeves, skirt with little unpressed pleats and a V-neck banded with narrow white and blue. Sleeves are short raglans.

Another blue and white has inch-wide beading down the bodice front with a blue ribbon threaded along its length. A grosgrain bow and belt complete the ribbon effect.

A white dress, drip-dry, has stiff accordion pleats and a shirt-waist top made of white eyelet.

Scarpe (Shoes, to You)

Italian Raffia may sound at first like a band of Sicilian guerrillas. It is, instead, a pleasantly cool substance for a pair of men's summer shoes, and you may find them at the shop of that good Italian shoe-maker, Thomas Brophy.

The shoes are loafers with leather sole, heel and lining. The raffia (natural or copper) has a binding in a contrasting shade around the moccasin toe. Price is $9.50.

Clark of England, booters to the Libyan desert, have now produced a pair of shoes called the Desert Kohn. They are made of French Ice calf in a hand-antiqued finish — dark brown. Like the Italian loafer above, they are extremely light, and flexible. Clark says the leather is micro-cellular for extra lightness and coolness, and it may well be for all we know. The micro cells fasten with a two-eye tie. Price $14.95 at Brophy's.

Jet buttons and a patent belt give sharp accent notes.

Pet Your Pet. Gadgets to keep your pet in a pleasant state of health and coolth—if there is such a word—are in full supply at the Pet Shop on Henderson Avenue.

Invite your parakeet or canary to nibble Veg-A-Fruit. Looks precisely like the salad mix at the super-market; comes in a clear plastic bag, and consists of various greens all chopped and ready to eat, for 25c. There are celery, onion, lettuce, cabbage, apple and chili peppers, all ground to bird-seed size. Just a dribble of oil and garlic vinegar and you could eat it yourself.

Pool in your garden? Not the kind you swim in, but the kind you dream into on a hot afternoon. The Pet Shop has water hyacinths to plant in your pool. They blossom into graceful blue-purple flowers, and keep your pool clean by spreading their roots and greedily sucking up all the undesirable vegetation at the bottom of the pool.

In the south, we understand, these things grow like crabgrass and impede the passage of boats, restrained and their root habit is restrained and their root habit a boon and not a nuisance.

Fish with finicky appetites may be tempted by some live brine shrimp that the Pet Shop is nursing along. We told you about dehydrated ones some time ago. These are live fellows, so little they look like unsettled dust on top of the briny water. Good for a sea-food cocktail.

Mr. Arnott, the Pet Shop owner, is also growing tubifiex worms to feed his own fish, and yours. They come out of the Delaware (a rather squeamish thought) and they grow, quadrillions of them, in a little pool in the Pet Shop yard.

New kits test the pH quality of your aquarium water. A little kit for $1.50 gives you a color chart to match with your water. Fancy $4.50 kit has ampoules of colored fluid that you match to your tank. Put your tank water in a vial, add bromthymol blue and compare the color. Correct the pH condition, if necessary, with sodium biphosphate or sodium bicarbonate, included in the kit.

Buttons, Bags and Boleros. In honor of summer, the Knitting Shop on Tulane Street has a beech ensemble, not only for knitwits but for anyone who likes to drowse on the sand.

It folds into a thing that looks like a beach bag. Open it up and you find a 26-inch wide quilted plastic pad to lie on, a flat little pillow for your head, and a bag for suntan lotion and cigarettes. There's an umbrella that fits into a loop when you're carrying the ensemble. Take the umbrella, put it together straight or at a slant, depending on the sun, and there you are. In red, blue or yellow banded with white.

Pears, oranges and apples are the new buttons at The Knitting Shop — the whole fruit, not just a picture. Other buttons are clock faces with Roman numerals in red or black on a gold-banded white face. Then there is a whole button-bag full of others: colored Scotties on white, windmills, grapes, tulips, gracefully arranged in a circle on a white ground, two peasant figures against natural or red wood, fruit painted on white.

The Monte Carlo kit makes a big cable-stitched sweater on number 10 needles. The kit has yarn and seven metal buttons in filligree design. There are 10 colors to choose from.

Ten colors in variegated worsted yarn, too. Long out of the market, this ombre yarn is back again, its light and deep shades graduating through the hank of yarn.

"This" is a liquid that will wash woolens in cool water. Cashmere, wools, blends, especially baby things, come out as clean and soft as new. Does this even in hard water, according to the label.

Fash-n-Mere, the ready-made garment makers, have a new summer bolero. It comes in black or white with a continuing band around neck and edge. This band, open-work, lies over a velvet ribbon that shows through to provide contrast. Pink ribbon with white, black or cocoa ribbon with black.

If you like to work tapestry, look over the Knitting Shop collection of squares for dining-room chairs. The series comes in gros or petit point and consists of fruit clusterds centered on a plain ground. There are also luggage rack strips to work.

Trailing Silk Chiffon. The trailing silk chiffon scarf, long a symbol of sloe-eyed glamor, has returned. You'll find it in ombre shades at The Betty Wright Shop, 144 Nassau. These scarves, fine and delicately colored, are avocado green, pink, cognac brown, grey, or blue, a full 36-inch square for $2.

The blue garter, another symbol of feminine allure, appears in ten different styles at this shop, slanted toward the summer brides who want a sentimental "something blue". They come in blue, or blue and white, trimmed with lace, net, small beads, white lilies of the valley and so on, priced from $1.50 to $3.98.

If you have a very sheer summer dress, you'll be interested in an opaque slip of Arnel taffeta (rayon taffeta). It has a five-inch pleated ruffle with a picoted line about two inches from the bottom. Cut the line if the slip is too long. Price is $3.98.

Helance nylon yarn has been used in "Footcaps", to wear if you don't wear stockings in the summer. These have a foam rubber insert at the heel that keeps them from slipping and making blisters: 89c a pair, one size fits any foot.

Chop sticks for a hair-do? Betty Wright has "tortoise shell" spears, with an ornamental head. Jab them through a chignon. There are also combs with flowers, giant hair-pins and clips for long hair, and a stable full of pony-tail restrainers. We liked an expansible one with little white flowers—enchanting on a small pony.

cyclists will carry a scroll urging President Eisenhower to run again.

Chris and "Biffy" left Wednesday on their two-day excursion, which is being co-sponsored by the Schwinn Bicycle Co. and Young Republicans' Clubs on the east coast. They are riding with two girls from Somerville and are being followed by a car with two chaperones and a doctor.

The two boys were selected by Fred Kuhn, owner of Kopp's Bicycle Shop, because they are "bicycling enthusiasts." Needless to say, they will be using Schwinn bikes for their trip.

Chris and "Biffy", both of whom claim to be staunch Republicans, left the Stacy-Trent Hotel in Trenton at 8:15 a.m. Wednesday and were scheduled to arrive at Camden's Walt Whitman Hotel in the afternoon. On the second day, they will travel an additional 20 miles to Wilmington, Del., from where they will be driven back to Princeton. The marathon will be completed in about two weeks, at which time the scroll will be presented to President Eisenhower in Washington.

B'nai B'rith Organized. A local chapter of B'nai B'rith was organized at a tea held at the home of Mrs. Herman Cohen, 172 Valley Road. Mrs. George Block, past state president, was the guest speaker.

Support for Tenacre.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

I was born in Princeton and have lived here most of my life. I believe I enjoy and appreciate this town as much as many of my fellow citizens. In the last several years, however, I have been increasingly worried about the concern of many people that everything be done "in the Princeton manner."

One of the great appeals and stimulating facts about Princeton is a diversity of people that is unusual in a town of this size. I was, therefore, extremely sorry to see Mr. Ocheltree's letter last week questioning whether the Tenacre Foundation should be allowed to rebuild its burned building until "it is determined whether the type of institution that this place may be either does or does not fit into the general scheme of things in Princeton."

I am not a Christian Scientist, nor have I any particular interest or sympathy with their beliefs but I believe they have every right to exist and expand here in Princeton, if they so desire. I have lived near them in two different houses, and I have never found them to be undesirable neighbors. After all, they have been a member of Princeton community since about 1921. It seems a bit unfair to question their right to exist here at this late time.

MARGATET W. GRACE
Pretty Brook Road

P.S. I fail to understand why so many Princetonians buy land and then look into the neighborhood and complain, as has obviously happened in the case of Mr. Ocheltree and in the recent controversy over a by-pass in the Rosedale Road area.

Bridle Trails for Children

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

There is one point in this controversy about bridle paths and private homes which seems to have been missed. There has been much talk of "horsemen" enjoying "rural" sports. Probably no one has counted how many "horsemen" are in fact children riding those horses.

Horseback riding here in Princeton is enjoyed by many more children than by adults. The children live for the time when they may go out on the trails.

To close the start of the bridle paths would necessitate a quite dangerous ride for these children along the highway to get to the few still "open" trails on the outskirts of town. It seems to me that a town like Princeton could and should perpetuate a bridle path as a bit of public park. I am sure the golfers would be up in arms, if suddenly the golf course had to give way to building lots, just as the "horsemen" are alarmed at the thought of losing their so long established trails.

BACK FROM SEA GIRT: Well-tanned and well-trained, Borough Patrolmen Ralph A. Procaccino (left), 35 Humbert Street, and Russell H. Shangle, 169 Witherspoon Street, were on the job again this week after completing a six-week course in basic police work at the New Jersey Police Academy in Sea Girt. Graduation exercises for the 23rd Municipal Police Class, composed of 42 members, were held last Friday at Manasquan High School.

Professor Thompson has devoted ten years to the project and spent $3,000,000 during that time, most of it the gift of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

He and his associates are uncovering the Agora, the civic, cultural and commercial center of Athens in the days of Socrates, Pericles, Aeschylus and others. They have turned over 300,000 tons of earth and rubble in their excavation of a five-block area.

One of Professor Thompson's pet projects is the reconstruction of the stoa of Attalos, one of the open-air galleries in which Greeks strolled, argued and taught. A two-story structure of white and blue marble and limestone, the stoa is 382 feet long and is being rebuilt with original materials wherever possible.

This fall the lower floor of the stoa will be dedicated in a ceremony that will coincide with the 25th anniversary of the commencement of the excavation. The lower floor is scheduled to become a museum, housing the more than 60,000 relics that have been found during the project.

Professor Thompson calls the stoa "the most comfortable place in Athens in summer." He says, "The way the arrangement of roof and pillars keep out the rays of the sun and slows the wind to a breeze increases my admiration for the ancients."

Industrial Library Available. Freeholder Frank J. Black, Mercer County Industrial Commission director, has invited all those in the area who are engaged in industrial development work to visit and use the commission's newly-expanded and revised library. Mr. Black said that the library has been revised to provide current and complete information for realtors, utilities, business firms and government agencies, as well as the commission staff.

What's My Line?

The incredibly pensive long-hair, pictured but not identified on page 3, is an anonymous gent who has been thinking atop Palmer Physical Laboratory on the Princeton University campus since the building was completed in 1906. He is a chap who has been missed by the vast majority of Princeton students because he is seated 70 feet above ground, well out of clear view, near the building's northwest corner.

Photographer Howard Schrader, an inquisitive soul as well as a daily inhabitant of the laboratory, has admired the solid, silent thinker for some time, but had been unable to get close enough for a proper camera study until this week. His wish came true when he was permitted to climb up on a construction scaffold, placed directly beneath the strange figure for the purpose of installing a fan in the lab's soon-to-be-used attic.

Mr. Schrader admits he doesn't know the identity of the wild-eyed ledge-lodger. He figures his latest subject is a symbol of important experimentation in physics, a good guess considering the work which has taken place in the laboratory. For more detailed information, he refers interested parties to O.W. Richardson, the noted English scientist who helped establish Palmer's reputation from 1906 to 1912.

STEPPING OUT IN SUPPORT OF SHORTS: Mrs. Karl Hernquist (left) of Princeton and her sister, Mrs. Sonja Ahlstam, a visitor from Sweden, say they're "hep" for the wearing of shorts by women, despite a perennial clamp-down on "glamorous" apparel in other communities. Young Lars Hernquist doesn't have an opinion after only 18 months of observation, but he seems to enjoy shorts himself—and he'll probably enjoy seeing them on others in due time. For more on the sultry summer subject, read below. (Richards Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Some municipalities have banned the wearing of shorts by women in their downtown business districts. What is your reaction?

Location: Downtown Princeton.

Mrs. Karl Hernquist, 16 East Stanworth Drive, housewife: I think, in a small city like Princeton, it's all right, but maybe in a big city it's not such a good idea. I know I wouldn't wear them in New York City myself. As a housewife, I love the wearing of shorts—it's handy—it cuts down on my laundry.

Mrs. Sonja Ahlstam, Stockholm, Sweden, post office secretary: I've just been in America visiting for the past month, and I made my shorts myself because we don't have them in Sweden. When I first arrived here, I thought women's shorts were very unattractive, but I find now that they aren't so bad—and they're very comfortable. I'm going to enjoy them for the next five months, while in Princeton, since I won't be able to wear them when I go back home—especially in a big city like Stockholm.

Paul R. Kline, 30 Lafayette Road West, physician: During the summertime, any abbreviated costume that has no more revealing features than a bathing suit should not be objectionable. I thinks the ladies should be allowed to be comfortable—at least until we have such things as air-conditioned streets.

Miss Olive F. McKee, 15 University Place, school teacher: I think, for younger girls, the wearing of shorts in public is a grand idea. That is, for girls up to about 35 or so, especially girls with good figures and shapely legs. For older women, they're not dignified or becoming, nor do shorts make them entrancing or attractive. I'd hate to see myself in a pair!

Robert D. McCarthy, 44 Morgan Place, liquor store salesman: I don't know how well-qualified I am to answer the question, though I observe all the shorts-wearing I can. I'm in favor of women wearing shorts, not only for their comfort but for the stimulation of we male observers. Unfortunately, too many of those who wear them should not. And, by the same token, there are some ladies around who might be pleasing in shorts who do not wear them. Short shorts are not as becoming as Bermudas, so maybe the former should be taboo. If the Borough wants to enforce an ordinance eliminating short shorts, I'll volunteer as a judge to determine if they're the proper length.

How Short Is Too Short?

Ever an interesting topic of news and conversation, the wearing of shorts by women in business districts was back in headlines (or at least noticeable-sized heads) this week. The traditionally conservative community of White Plains, N.Y., caused the most commotion when it arrested two ladies for promenading in the downtown area in shorts that proved shorter than those prescribed by local ordinance.

Naturally concerned with the subject, since Princeton is a town which goes "all out" for shorts in summertime, TOWN TOPICS decided to seek some public opinion regarding the basic situation. The inquiring reporter asked for reactions to the idea of completely banning shorts and, in the process, wound up in several baffling discussions about the proper shortness of shorts (no decision reached).

For a report of all pertinent information gleaned, read Question of the Week on this Page.

Symbol for 200 Years. Princeton University has planned two days of ceremony and celebrations for the 200th anniversary of Nassau Hall. The bicentennial program will be held September 22 and 23 and will coincide with the opening of the University's 211th academic year.

The general theme of the two-day program will be the reaffirmation of the principles of education which Nassau Hall has embodied throughout the past two centuries. The front steps of the historic building, that served as the nation's capitol for four months in 1783, will be the scene of the opening ceremony at 3 p.m. Saturday, September 22. The ceremony will mark the issuance of a three-cent commemorative Nassau Hall stamp.

Later that afternoon Dean of the Faculty J. Douglas Brown and Mrs. Brown will give a reception in their home in honor of the university trustees and special guests, including those who will receive honorary degrees at a formal convocation the following day. In the evening a dinner will be held in Procter Hall of the Graduate College.

Harlan to Speak. Highlighting the bicentennial program will be three major addresses. Dr. Dodds will talk on Princeton's liberal arts tradition, while Supreme Court Justice John Marshall Harlan and the Very Rev. John Baillie, principal of New College, University of Edinburgh, will talk respectively, on "Education for Service to the State" and "Education for Service to God." Justice Harlan, a member of the Princeton class of 1920, will give his address at the Procter Hall dinner.

President Dodds and the Rev. Mr. Baillie will speak at the University's opening exercises and a convocation to mark the bicentennial, to be held Sunday morning on the front campus. A large procession including the trustees, members of the faculty and administration, representatives of the Graduate Council, the Undergraduate Council, the Association of Graduate School Alumni, Princeton Borough and Township, will precede the exercises.

Silver Mace Ceremony Set. President Dodds will confer honorary degrees at the convocation and will also present the Albert G. Milbank Memorial Scholarship Prize of $500 as his first public act of the new academic year. The prize is annually awarded to the university's ranking undergraduate scholar.

Another feature of the ceremony will be the presentation of a silver mace to the university by the residents of the community. The mace, symbolic of 200 years of friendly cooperation between town and university, is being financed by popular subscription. In the future it will be used at all official convocations and will be kept at other times in a glass case in the Faculty Room of Nassau Hall.

A luncheon for the honorary degree recipients and guests of honor will be given in the University Commons following the ceremonies. To commemorate the bicentennial, a book, to be edited by Henry Savage, will be published in which the history of Nassau Hall will be recounted.

When the Board of Trustees approved a program for the observance of Nassau Hall's bicentennial, a committee was appointed under the chairmanship of Stephen F. Voorhees, charter trustee emeritus, with Richard K. Stevens and Henderson Supplee also representing the Board. Arthur E. Cox and Alexander Leitch represent the Administration, while Donald W. Griffin was selected from the Graduate Council and Dean Brown, Mr. Savage and Robert W. McLaughlin, Jr. from the faculty.

Latimer Wins Scholarship. Douglas H. Latimer of 42 Park Place has been awarded a Princeton University National Scholarship, the highest honor that Princeton can confer upon an entering freshman. Mr. Latimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Latimer, will receive $1,100, renewable annually.

Street, Princeton University student: My roommate wears Bermudas, but I'd rather look at girls in them. As a long-time followers of women's shorts, I look at the White Plains' decision as an infringement on my rights as a follower. I hereby endorse women's shorts—at any length!

Mrs. Caroline Gianantonio, 644 Princeton-Kingston Road, restaurant cashier: Shorts make women—most women—look better and more sporty in the summer. Also, more relaxed and comfortable. I don't believe they should be too short, but just an appealing length—say, Bermuda length. I wear them myself around home and when I'm not working, and I would wear them in the Princeton business district if I were not on duty while downtown.

J. Clark Gleeson, Cherry Valley Road, dentist: The important factor in summer dress is comfort. We unfortunate males must suffer because of social customs set generations ago. If the ladies are cooler and more relaxed wearing shorts in hot, humid weather, then I'm for it. Most women are vain enough to know whether their appearance is proper, so I'll leave the aesthetic aspect for the gals to decide and men to enjoy.

We've got you on our mind!

Locusts (17-Year Variety) Due. Swarms of locusts which have not seen the light of day since their birth 17 years ago are scheduled to return for a short visit this summer. The 17-year locusts, in hibernation since the summer of 1939, should return to New Jersey this year, according to Henry S. Dyras, associate curator of insects at Chicago Natural History Museum.

Only a few years ago the locusts (cicadas to biologists) gave a sneak preview to Princeton residents. The cicada, whose period of dormancy is the longest known of any insect, waged a minor attack here which kept Princetonians annoyed by their high-pitched buzzing.

Two Weeks to Go. Dr. Leland Merrill, extension specialist in entomology at Rutgers College of Agriculture, says several localized incidents of locust emergence will begin in New Jersey within the next two weeks. It is recommended that trees and plants be covered with mosquito netting or light cloth during the time the locusts are out of the ground.

During the month-long period when cicadas invade gardens, the females feed on small trees and plants. They specialize on succulent leaves and small fruit.

The locusts' rasping sound is traceable to the mating call of the male. He makes the sound by snapping ribbed muscles in the abdomen and by regulating the sound chamber in the same part of the body.

Gradually, the cicadas disappear, prey to enemies and old age. Before the insects die, however, eggs are laid, and the newly-hatched locusts burrow their way into the ground to await 17 years of hibernation.

New Play Centers Open. The Princeton Playgrounds Committee has announced the opening of two new play centers, the Jugtown playground on Erdman Avenue and the Marquand Park play center. Both are open Monday through Friday for children 6 through 12.

Miss Priscilla Cortelyou will he the instructor at the Jugtown playground, while Mrs. Dorothy Kayhl will supervise at Marquand Park. Activities at Marquand Park include instruction in square dancing, handicraft and dramatics.

The playgrounds committee also announced the schedule for story-telling periods: Monday—10:30 a.m., Harrison Street Playground; 2 p.m., John Street Pool; Tuesday—10:30 a.m., Witherspoon Playground; 2 p.m., Pine Street Pool; Wednesday — 10:30 a.m., High School Playground; 2 p.m., Jugtown Playground; and Thursday—10 a.m., Marquand Park.

Road Blocks for Drunks. A program of road checks in the early gram of road checksc in the early hours of the morning has been instituted by New Jersey State Police to catch drunken drivers. The stepped-up protection plan was announced by Attorney General Grover Richman and Motor Vehicle Director Arthur Gassert.

The checks, taking the form of road blocks, will be held at unannounced points between midnight and 4 a.m., when most drunken driving is thought to occur. The initial check teams will consist of State Police and motor vehicle inspectors, although Mr. Richman said he will urge county prosecutors to bring county forces into the campaign.

According to Mr. Richman, 35 to 60% of New Jersey's 791 traffic deaths last year were probably caused by drunken drivers. A series of tests run recently in Camden netted three drivers among 2000 who were too intoxicated to drive.

According to the state officials, and clam dishes, will be prepared and served by members of the company. Tickets are available from members and should be purchased prior to the day of the bake. Edward Terhune is chairman of the event.

"Operation Alert 1956." Civil Defense volunteers in Princeton, as well as in all other municipalities in New Jersey, will participate in "Operation Alert 1956," which will run from July 20 to July 26. The public will not participate in this year's nation-wide exercises, and no sirens will be sounded.

New Jersey's part in the exercise, according to Thomas S. Dignon, actin state CD director, will consist of manning control centers and maintaining communications. The state will cooperate with New York and Pennsylvania, both of which are having public participation, in controlling traffic at boundary approaches.

Directors in target areas will damage estimates to State Control in relation to destroyed utilities, roads, bridges, etc. and will report what help will be needed. "Support" municipalities those in light damage areas will report on existing resources and what can be spared to assist attack areas.

Eight theoretical atomic and hydrogen bombs will be dropped on ten counties in New Jersey. It is assumed under such an impact of bombs that two-fifths of the state's population would be killed or injured, a total of approximately 2,000,000 casualities.

The death toll in Mercer County is estimated at 48,000, while 58,000 would be injured. Other counties affected by the bombing that would concentrate on industrial and population centers are Warren, Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Passaic, Union, Burlington, Camden and Gloucester.

Bedford on Board. Bruce Bedford, Jr. of 39 Hillcrest Lake Drive has been elected a member of the board of directors of the Children's Home Society of New Jersey, a member of the Princeton United Fund. Announcement of Mr. Bedford's election was made by Robert A. Smith, president of the Society.

Mr. Bedford, treasurer of the Luzerne Rubber Company of Trenton, is also treasurer and immediate past president of the Mercer County Chapter of the American Cancer Society. Among the board members who were re-elected to three-year terms is Mrs. Edward L. Howe of The Great Road.

among 2000 who were too intoxicated to drive.

According to the state officials, while the number of drivers arrested was not high, their apprehension may have prevented three accidents and saved that many lives or more. While New Jersey's rating of 3.4 deaths per 100,000,000 miles of travel is third lowest in the country, Governor Robert Meyner is not satisfied with the traffic situation.

Testing by the police is done with a drunkometer, which measures the amount of alcohol in a driver's bloodstream. The police, who will have 24 when their latest order of six arrive, have been taking instruction in the operation of the instruments.

According to the officials, the drunkometer can only be used with the consent of the arrested driver. If he will not agree to the test, a doctor must be called in to determine sobriety.

P.A.C. Rally Earns a Tie. The Princeton Athletic Club completed the first two weeks of the current season without tasting defeat, but was held to a 2-2 tie Friday night by Montgomery Township to mark the first time it had not racked up an outright victory. The home forces had to come from behind to turn the trick, the outcome keeping them in first place in the Tri-County League.

Montgomery took a 2-0 lead in the fourth, pushing across its runs on an infield error, a pair of singles and a double by Mort Yeoman. The P.A.C. then prevented further scoring with an inning-ending double play.

In the last of the sixth, Bob Montgomery bunted safely and rode all the way home on a solid triple by Bill Rodefeld. The latter crossed the plate when the relay on his hit went wild.

Russ Watson tossed the first five innings for Princeton, with Pat Tidey blanking the visitors in the sixth and seventh. The team owes its success to date to the fine pitching it has received, particularly since the composite batting average after four games is no better than .229.

Manager Charlie Perpetua is the top hurler with a 2-0 mark and 11 scoreless innings. Montgomery is the leading hitter, posting a four-game average of .555, followed by Lee Ammerman's .416.

The P.A.C. has another home game against Princeton Junction on Friday and a trip to Montgomery Tuesday evening. Brokaw Field encounters are set for 6:15 p.m. Princeton Junction's home field is not playable this season, and it will be in action on every occasion away from home.

Football Letterman Lost. Preseason practice for Princeton's football team was a full two months away when Charlie Caldwell found out that one of the 15 returning lettermen on whom he was counting very probably had experienced an untimely end to his football career. Senior Charlie Sharp, a guard for two seasons but scheduled to play at end next fall, lost four fingers and part of the palm of his hand in an industrial accident Friday.

Sharp was operating a punch press at the Warner & Swasey Co. plant in Dover, O. Details of the accident are unavailable here but the extent of the injury makes it unlikely that he will play again. It was his left hand that was involved, but in any event, the pass-catching duties of an end would seem to be barred to him.

"I won't know for some time whether he can play," Caldwell said this week in his Dillon Gym office. "It doesn't seem likely that, with that much of his hand lost, anything artificial could be provided to help him out. We certainly can't count on him at present. I'm just glad for his sake that it was his left hand and he won't have to learn to do everything over again."

Six feet two and 208 pounds, Sharp was a standout linemen on the 1957 freshman team. He never quite realized his potential on the varsity, running into a good deal of stiff competition for the guard posts, but hopes were that he could make the conversion to end with a marked degree of success.

Graduation losses from Cappy Cappon's end squad, plus the injury to Sharp, create a difficult assignment for the Tiger coaching staff as it plans defense of the Ivy League title. Ben Spinelli, Joe DiRenzo and Joe Grotto, all first-line veterans, picked up their diplomas in June.

Two key players who were not in top form in 1955 because of injuries are being counted on to fill the left end assignment. Mike Stewart, a Princeton resident who was bothered by a bad ankle most of last year, is figured to earn the starting job. Behind him will be another senior, 6-4 Don MacElwee, with junior Cherlie Disbrow in reserve.

Bob Kent, who saw enough action as a junior to win his letter, is currently the choice at right end, with Jim Valuska '58 behind him. The coaches will consider the problem of picking a replacement for Sharp, who was ranked behind Kent and Valuska, before the squad leaves for Blairstown on September 1.

Near-Miss at Syracuse. The slim margin of two-fifths of a second, translatable in distance to little more than 12 to 18 inches, was all that kept Princeton from being represented in the Olympics at Melbourne, Australia, next fall. The Orange and Black four-oared crew with coxswain lost by no more than that Sunday in the finals at Syracuse on Lake Onondaga.

The West Side Club of Buffalo crossed the finish line in the 2,000-meter race (a distance of one mile and 427 yards) in 7:13.8. Princeton's time was 7:14.2.

It was some consolation that all three of the Princeton entries reached the finals, achieving that distinction without the loss of a race. Dutch Schoch also had a four without coxswain and a pair with coxswain entered, all of them taking part in the climactic races on Sunday.

The other two shells did not come close to winning their events, the pair winding up third in a four-entry field end the four with cox last among four. The trials, lasting four days, were delayed by unusually rough water during the first 48 hours.

Princeton will be represented in the Olympics by proxy if nothing else. Yale won the trials for eight-oared crews, defeating Cornell and Navy's 1952 Olympic champions.

"HOT BOX" GETS MUCH TOO HOT: Volunteer firefighters from the Princeton Junction Fire Department unload smouldering lumber from a semi-flat car that burst into flame as a long freight train, of which it was a part, was re-fueling at the Junction early Sunday morning. Battling the blaze for almost two hours, the firemen managed to separate the timber car from the rest of the train and sidetrack it in time to prevent delay of other trans, but were unable to feed ample water on the fire because of high tension wires overhead. Later, they were called back to handle the unloading job (above) when blaze broke out anew. Chief Roger Holmes said car's "hot box" got too hot, burned up through car and ruined load of lumber headed for bridge construction in New England.

Elmer Adler, has been honored by the establishment of a $25,000 fund in his name. The money was contributed by Carl W. Jones, Princeton class of 1911 and the former publisher of the Minneapolis Journal.

Mr. Adler headed the program during its first 12 years and retired in 1952. Previous to coming to Princeton, he served as president of The Pynson Printers, New York City, for 18 years. The Elmer Adler Graphic Arts Fund will be used, according to Mr. Jones' plans, for "lectures and demonstrations hy distinguished scholars, designers and artists, as well as the preparation of leaflets and program of exhibitions and lectures and such other activities which may exemplify the curatorship of Elmer Adler."

Lt. Houck Graduated. Second Lieutenant Lewis D. Houck Jr. of 23 Hodge Road was recently graduated from the Army's Antiaircraft Artillery and Guided Missile School at Fort Bliss, Texas. Lieutenant Houck, who entered the army last February, is a member of the Princeton University class of 1955.

At Fort Bliss he successfully completed the school's surface-to-air missile officers' basic course. The 12-week course trained him in all theoretical and practical phases of the Nike guided missile.

Watershed Project Launched. Anxious to gain information which will help them plan future activities wisely, members of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association this week officially instituted a rainfall and sediment research project in the Stony Brook area. They predicted that it will take several years to collect ample data that will be of aid in long-range planning.

Financed jointly by Princeton University and the U. S. Geological Survey, the study will determine the effectiveness of soil conservation practices in reducing flood peaks and sedimentation, the effects of rainfall on ero-

A Russian entrepreneur...if there is such a thing...came to the United States a few weeks ago, exclaimed "Vyelikolyepnie!" (Wow!") when he saw American shopping centers. "Just what we need in Siberia!"

Seems that Siberian housewives have no central place to ahop and muat travel 10 kilometers east for a samovar, 41 kilometers south for boots and straight north for snowshoes.

With a nice big shopping center, Sonya would need to make only one shopping trip. She could park the family station-droshky (with the whole Siberian steppe for a parking lot*) and let the little tovariches tumble about while she buys borscht and a new babushka...all in an hour or two.

Incidentally, Russiana think we are very queer people. Know why? Because our atorea have all those immense bins of frozen food. In Russia they try to keep food FROM freezing.

The Ells are coached by Jim Rathschmidt, who was freshman coach here before taking over at New Haven in 1950. Rathschmidt is a Hun School alumnus who made this community his home for many years.

P.A.C. Stays Undefeated. Behind the combined two-hit hurling of Pat Tidey and Al Phox, the Princeton Athletic Club won its fourth game without a loss Tuesday, defeating South Brunswick, 5-1, on the losers' field.

Phox, who picked up the win, put the locals in front in the fifth inning when he tripled to score Del Wible and tallied himself on an error. Princeton racked up three more runs in the sixth, taking advantage of an error and a wild pitch.

Bill Rodefeld and Wible walked to open the inning, and Alan Ammerman singled to load the bases. Rodefeld and Wible scored when the South Brunswick shortstop threw wild to the plate on a ground ball hit by Bob Cox. After Ammerman went out in a steal attempt, Cox tallied on a wild pitch.

Drake's, NSC Take Tilts. Behind the one-hit pitching of John McCreedy, the Nassau Social Club softball team defeated ASCOP Tuesday evening, 9-0, to move into a virtual three-way first-place deadlock in the Princeton Community League with ASCOP and Drake's Plumbing and Heating. Each club now has sustained two losses since the start of the 1956 campaign.

While McCreedy's teammates were aiding his cause with seven safeties and ASCOP was hurting its cause with five errors, Drake's was busy climbing back in the win column with a 7-1 triumph over Laidlaw's following last week's 2-1 loss to the Sportsmen's Club. Pitcher Bill Bergen, who limited Laidlaw's to one blow, proved a double hero as he tripled in the fifth inning with the bases loaded to drive home Drake's decisive runs.

No. 1 in Trouble. Beaten in a closely contested game, 2-1, by an upstart Kingston team, Princeton Fire Company No. 1 stood a better-than-average chance this week of being abruptly removed from its top-seeded position in the 1956 Firemen's Baseball League. The totally unexpected defeated pushed the defending champs, 17-0 in loop competition a year ago, into second place in the league's "B" section.

Despite the well-earned victory and an impressive 6-2 record to date, Kingston remained runner-up in the "A" section this week, unable to gain ground on Belle Mead, the league's only unbeaten cub (4-0). Loop managers predicted an even closer race down the season's homestretch—in both sections—especially with the playing-off of an unprecedented six tie contests.

The Standings:

Two Tournaments Set. Play starts Monday in the men's singles division of the annual Red Feather Community Championships. The women's tournament will start the following week, Monday, July 16.

Entries in both events may be made during the day through the YMCA, 120 John Street (3630.) Contestants are asked to pay a 50c registration fee and to provide three new balls.

The men's tournament is limited to players from the Princeton area, but women from both Princeton and Trenton are eligible. The respective defending champions, Kenneth Wilson and Mrs. Pepper Constable, are expected to enter again this year.

Jaycees Sponsor Tournament. The winners and runners-up in the New Jersey Junior Chamber of Commerce Tennis Tournament received trophies Saturday night at a banquet held at the Nassau Tavern. William Flaherty, president of the New Jersey Jaycees, made the presentations.

Tommy Richardson of Westfield, nationally-ranked Junior player, received the winner's trophy in the Junior division, while Dennis Lynch of Red Bank was awarded the championship trophy in the boys' division. Runners-up were Albert Stark, of Trenton, Junior division, and 12-year-old Roger Flax, of Newark, Boys.

Both Richardson and Lynch will compete in the National Jaycee tournament to be played in Oak Park, Ill., August 6-10. Richardson beat Stark 6-0, 6-2 to gain the championship, while Lynch turned back Flax 6-1, 6-0. The tournament was played last Friday and Saturday on the Church Courts.

Franklin "Cappy" Cappon, Princeton University basketball coach, was the speaker at the banquet. Henry Young of the Princeton Jaycee Chapter was chairman of the event. Members of his committee included Jeff High, Edward Dougherty, John Lasley and Howard Waxwood III. Lawrence Swinburne, president of the Jaycees, was master of ceremonies.

sion and the probable effect of conservation lakes which will be built in this area on the sediment load carried by Stony Brook.

As a result of past water shortages and soil losses, considerable interest in the project already has been indicated throughout the two sponsoring watersheds. Also, the New Jersey department of water policy and supply is interested in the study, largely due to the fact that it is the official state liaison with the federal geological agency.

Thompson Conducts Poll. Congressman Frank R. Thompson Jr., Democrat from New Jersey's Fourth District, has announced results of poll of a cross-section of constituents in his area.

According to the poll, which covered both local and national issues, 91% of those answering favored deepening of the Delaware River channel to Trenton. Seventy-eight per cent favored Congressional establishment of flood insurance until private companies could establish policies.

In a question on immigration, the largest group of people (34%) favored reducing the present yearly quotas with 25% favoring increasing existing limits. Sixty-two per cent of those polled favored a penny increase in first class postage rates to help cut down the postal deficit.

Eighty-nine per cent of the poll answers favored the formation of a Congressional committee to investigate abuses of union welfare funds. Balloting on the Taft-Hartley Law found 31% in favor of no change, 30% desiring greater union restrictions, 21% in favor of removing union-claimed injustices and 18% advocating repeal.

Water Policy Hearings Friday. The Water Policy and Supply Commission will hold hearings this Friday on requests which may lead to the location of two major industrial plants in Lawrence Township.

Curtiss-Wright, the aeronautical firm, hopes to build an engineering and experimental plant on a just-rezoned area at the northern end of the township on Brunswick Pike near the Delaware and Raritan Canal. The plant would later be expanded for production and the employment potential is estimated at 5,000 persons.

Curtiss-Wright will need to draw some 1,250,000 gallons of water daily from the canal, a part of which would be returned after proper treatment.

The Newark News will move into a brand new field if its needs can be met in the area. The newspaper seeks to build a plant to reprocess newsprint for reuse, with the old ink washed out of newspapers. A 285-foot machine would accomplish the process.

The News plant would need to draw six million gallons of water daily from the canal. About five million gallons would be replaced after clarification and treatment under state standards.

Both enterprises are almost certain to locate in Lawrence if the water use hurdle can be cleared. The Mercer Freeholders, Lawrence Township Committee and Greater Trenton Chamber of Commerce are expected to line up behind the proposals at the hearings.

Municipal Sessions. The regular opening meeting of July for the Lawrence Township Committee will be held this Friday at 8 in the Municipal Building. The meeting was pushed back because of the Wednesday holiday.

Township Court will not convene on July 16 because Magistrate Casimir Bugdal will be out of town at a wedding.

The 15th annual Princeton Institute of Theology, which each year attracts members of more then a score of denominations and from all parts of this country and abroad, will open on Monday at Princeton Theological Seminary under the auspices of the faculty. The dates are July 10-19.

Residents of the Princeton area may hear many outstanding church and theological leaders over the ten day period by paying a registration fee of $5.00. Registration may be made through Dr. J. Christy Wilson, again secretary of the Institute, at the Seminary (3193) and on Monday afternoon.

Dr. John A. Mackay, president of the Seminary, will open the Institute with an address Monday evening at 7:30 in Miller Chapel on "The Church's Mission in the Ecumenical Era".

Evening meetings at 7:30 (Miller Chapel) in the first week will be devoted to the theme "Christianity and Renascent World Issues". Speakers will be: Tuesday, Dr. P. D.
